HAIR REMOVAL

Hair growth is the result of heredity factors, race and/or hormone levels. In addition, some medications and illnesses can stimulate hair growth. Electrolysis is an option when hair growth is in an area of the body where it may not be desired such as on a woman's upper lip, chin, or bikini line.

ELECTROLYSIS

Electrolysis is the only method of permanent hair removal. Today's medical electrolysis devices destroy the growth centre of the hair with heat energy. A very fine probe is inserted into the hair follicle which emits a small electrical current. This breaks down and destroys the components of the hair follicle that enables growth and is permanently removed.

Many factors influence hair growth, so you will need to return for several electrolysis visits. The total number of sessions needed to remove hair permanently from a particular area will vary from person to person. Most clients return once a week or every other week as needed until all the hair is removed.

SIX ZONE ANALYSIS

Based on insight from Chinese Face Diagnosis, adverse skin conditions have been shown to be strongly linked to underlying internal conditions related to your health and lifestyle.

Zone 1: Forehead - Common conditions: Congestion along hairline and brows, breakouts and dehydration.

Considerations: Improper removal of makeup, use of comedogenic (blackhead forming) or irritating ingredients in skin care products and make-up. Insufficient water intake and poor digestion through lack of 'whole foods'. Breakouts or unusual hair growth can indicate hormonal imbalance, which may be caused by extreme stress.

Chinese diagnosis link: Water intake or poor digestion.

Zone 2: Nose, between eyes - Common conditions: Congestion and comedones (blackheads), breakouts, redness, flakiness, vertical lines (furrows) and dilated capillaries.

Considerations: Excess oil, dehydration, poor extraction technique, comedogenic ingredients in make-up, poor diet — heavy intake of rich foods, overconsumption of alcohol, possible food allergy.

Chinese diagnosis link: Heavy intake of rich foods, lack of greens, late-night eating.

Zone 3: Eyes - Common conditions: Milia (small white spots), fine lines, dark circles, puffiness, sensitisation. Stress, and allergies contribute to these conditions.

Considerations: Comedogenic ingredients in make-up or make-up remover.

Chinese diagnosis link: Allergies, insufficient fluid intake, lack of sleep, stress.

Zone 4: Cheeks - Common conditions: Sensitisation and hot spots, breakouts, milia, vertical lines, and hyperpigmentation.

Considerations: Allergies and sinus problems, comedogenic ingredients in make-up, poor telephone hygiene, sun damage.

Chinese diagnosis link: Pollution/living environment, smoking or asthma, respiratory stress from cough, cold or smoking.

Zone 5: Chin and mouth - Common conditions: Subsurface congestion, breakouts, comedones, pigmentation or increased hair growth on top lip.

Considerations: Improper cleansing, comedogenic makeup, smoking, leaning chin on hand, pigmentation and hair growth from pregnancy.

Chinese diagnosis link: Food allergies and eating habits.

Zone 6: Neck and lower jaw - Common conditions: Breakouts on the jawline, sensitisation, pigmentation and signs of ageing.
Considerations: Sun damage and/or photosensitivity to fragrances.
Chinese diagnosis link: High stress levels, hormonal considerations.

MEDICAL GRADE MICRONEEDLING

Microneedling is an advanced cosmetic procedure that involves repeatedly puncturing the skin (150 insertions per second) with multiple tiny, sterile needles to treat different skin conditions.

This technique causes microtrauma to the skin, which stimulates the regeneration of new collagen - a protein that prevents our skin from sagging.

It increases elasticity and refines the texture of the skin, creating smoother, luminous, younger-looking skin.

Mesotherapy is a technique that uses injections of vitamins, enzymes, hormones, and plant extracts to rejuvenate and tighten skin, and is used in combination with microneedling to give superb skin rejuvenation.

All skin types/conditions can be treated using microneedling including:

- Fine lines, wrinkles, lax skin, sagging and general signs of ageing
- Poor skin tone
- Enlarged pores
- Acne scars and stretch marks
- Hyperpigmentation (sun damage and age spots)
- Thinning hair/alopecia

Benefits of Microneedling

1. Microneedling has fast results

The skin will remain quite pink for about 24-48 hours after treatment. Thereafter, you will enjoy plump and luminous skin lasting for a number of months.

2. Microneedling results improve with time

If you choose to continue with microneedling sessions, you will see a drastic increase in collagen, with results lasting up to six months after treatment.

3. Microneedling helps hair growth

Alopecia – a condition which causes hair loss – is suffered by many people the world over. It has many underlying causes, and can result in patchy or total hair loss, on the head and body. One of the treatment options for this form of hair loss is microneedling, which stimulates the dormant hair follicles, encouraging growth.

4. Microneedling can reduce cellulite

Microneedling has shown to have positive results in the treatment of cellulite (uneven fat deposits in the body). Through microneedling, the skin becomes firmer, making it more difficult for the fat deposits to protrude, or for the skin to dimple.

5. Microneedling makes skin look younger

As we age, our skin loses collagen, resulting in the skin thinning, sagging and wrinkling. Microneedling boosts the generation of new skin tissue, which increases the production of collagen. The end result is much plumper, youthful-looking skin.

6. Microneedling prevents signs of ageing

Alongside treating existing wrinkles and sagging, microneedling can also be used to prevent wrinkles and fine lines from starting at all.

7. Microneedling can treat scars and pigmentation

Scars can be detrimental to a person's self-esteem. Fortunately, microneedling treatments have proven results in diminishing the appearance of all scar types, including acne scars, age spots and uneven pigmentation. It's even known to reduce the appearance of large pores. This is all done by breaking down the old scar tissue and triggering the production of collagen for a healthier-looking dermis.

8. Microneedling reduces the appearance of stretch marks

Stretch marks may appear as a result of sudden weight loss and gain, particularly among pregnant women. These can be extremely difficult to treat, however, microneedling is known to improve the appearance of stretch marks.

MICROSCLEROTHERAPY

Microsclerotherapy is a treatment for small leg veins under the skin, often referred to as 'spider veins' or 'small veins'. They are more visible in patients with pale skin. The exact cause is not known but is often related to varicose veins. It is important that any underlying conditions are treated before treating the veins with microsclerotherapy.

What does the procedure involve?

The thread veins are injected with a sclerosant called Fibroven™ through a very small needle. This damages the vein wall and is absorbed by the body over the next few weeks. Compression stockings will need to be worn for 3 days following treatment 24/7. The legs will look bruised for a few weeks until the veins are absorbed.

Does it hurt?

This is not a painful procedure. The injections are very superficial and made with a tiny needle. Some patients have likened the feeling to a nettle sting.

What will my legs look like after treatment?

The injection will initially cause some redness and welts, like insect bites. When you remove the stockings your legs will probably look bruised and the veins often look worse before they look better. The veins are darker at this stage. The appearance improves noticeably by day 10-14, and will continue to improve thereafter. The full result of the treatment session will be apparent by about 12-16 weeks, although there is a huge variation in time of response to treatment. A few patients may experience brown staining which may take a few months to clear.

How many treatments will I need?

This can depend on the individual response to treatment and the extent of the thread veins. It is best to budget for up to 4 treatments. It is possible to get an excellent result after one treatment.

Will the thread veins come back?

You are likely to develop more thread veins as it's possible there is a weakness in this area and may need top up treatments every 2-3 years, although the same treated veins are extremely unlikely to reappear. The price depends on the number of veins treated. A final price will be given at consultation.

Average price per session £140

ANTI-WRINKLE INJECTIONS

Anti-wrinkle injections are a well-known safe and effective cosmetic wrinkle treatment with very few health risks. It is a prescription-only medicine made from a neurotoxin produced by the bacterium clostridium botulinum (botulinum toxin A).

Whilst it has a wide range of uses in the medical field, such as the treatment of muscle spasms and excessive sweating, cosmetically, anti-wrinkle injections provide a more youthful, rejuvenated and smoother skin.

GUMMY SMILE

(EXCESSIVE GINGIVAL DISPLAY)

If you feel that when you smile you show too much of your gum, or that your gum is simply too prominent when you smile – this is often referred to as a ‘gummy smile’.

Gummy smile is a phenomenon that when some people smile, their upper lip elevates too far above their upper teeth which exposes their gums. One of the causes is a hyperactive muscle which elevates the upper lip. Occasionally, the gummy smile is also aggravated by a thin upper lip that further contributes to the problem by exposing the upper gum even more.

Fortunately, gummy smile can be simply and effectively corrected with botulinum toxin injections to reduce the activity of the muscle that elevates the upper lip. This can be combined with lip filler where it is exacerbated by a thin upper lip.

Price (Botulinum Injections)£195
Upper Lip Fillers£150

PROFHILO®

Profhilo® is one of the highest concentrations of hyaluronic acid on the market. It is a beneath-the-skin-restoration; a bio remodelling and moisturising treatment that increases firmness, elasticity and improves skin laxity.

Profhilo® is most commonly used for facial areas, but can also be used to rejuvenate the:

- Neck • Décolleté
- Arms • Knees

Benefits of PROFHILO®

- Returns volume and firmness
- Improves skin structure
- Deeply hydrating
- Stimulates 4 types of collagen growth

Profhilo® hyaluronic acid is slowly released and stimulates the production of collagen and elastin, renewing your skin from within.

It works by being injected just below the surface of the skin with tiny needles. Once injected, it naturally spreads out and is absorbed over about a 4cm area of the skin from each injection point. This means that you can usually have the treatment applied to your whole face with around about 10 injection sites.

The bio-aesthetic point (BAP) technique is used when injecting Profhilo® and was developed specifically for use with it. The BAP technique is a sequence of 5 injection sites on each side of your face, developed using CT scans to produce the most effective and even spread of the Profhilo®.

Two treatments are required, 4 weeks apart.

Neck (x2 treatments)..... £499
Face and Neck (x2 treatments) £950

EXCESSIVE SWEATING

(Hyperhidrosis)

‘Hyperhidrosis, or abnormally excessive sweating that is not related to heat or exercise, is a common disorder that can cause social anxiety and embarrassment.

An estimated 3% of the British population, men and women, suffer from excessive underarm sweating (axillary hyperhidrosis) who have no related medical problems.

Several tiny injections are administered just underneath the skin using botulinum toxin A and this lasts for around 1 year.

A two-week review is carried out following your initial treatment.

*GP clearance is necessary to eliminate any underlying medical conditions prior to treatment.

- Vitamin B12 deficiency is common and can manifest at any age and is largely unrecognised.
- Vitamin B12 is crucial for many systems of the body to function correctly.
